Proposal A will help students here

By Terry Wright

In less than two weeks voters will be asked to go to the election polls to vote on a state constitutional amendment for school and tax reform. "Proposal A", if passed, will do several things which have a direct impact on residents of Crawford County.

It rolls back this year's assessment hikes. Many property owners this year received double-digit increases in their assessments. Proposal A wipes out those increases. Instead, assessments will go up only three percent, last year's rate of inflation. Future assessments will be limited to five percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less.

School millages will be rolled back to 18 mills. In Crawford County that means a decrease of 10.35 mills. Yet state revenues in our schools will go up to $4,800 per student over the next three years, and that amount will increase if state revenues from sales tax and the lottery go up. Crawford AuSable Superintendent Kent Reynolds stated, "We have an aggressive five-year educational program planned. If proposal A passes, we will be able to implement the whole thing in only three years without asking the taxpayers for one extra cent."

Although proposal A will not solve school overcrowding problems, it will provide adequate school operational revenues. If it becomes necessary to add classroom space, the Crawford AuSable School District will not have to ask for additional operational millage.

To offset decreasing property assessments, proposal A would increase the sales tax by two percent. A two cent per dollar sales tax hike would bring Michigan in line with the national average, as would a property tax decrease.

The most unique aspect of proposal A is that because it is a state constitutional amendment, rather than a law, it cannot be tampered with in any way, shape, or form by Lansing. The changes, as specified in the amendment, are guaranteed and can only be changed again by another statewide referendum. Every penny of increased sales tax, and every penny of lottery revenue go directly to the schools. That fact is guaranteed.

Voters will have to make up their minds on proposal A on Wednesday, June 2. The voter turnout in Kalkaska is expected to be heavily in favor of proposal A after that school was forced to closed early this year when the district ran out of money.

If you would like to hear more about proposal A, the Crawford AuSable School District will be hosting two informational meetings to answer any questions that you may have. They will be held in the Middle School cafeteria on Tuesday, May 25, at 5 p.m., and again on Thursday, May 27, at 5 p.m.

Camp Grayling uses environmental data

(This is the third and last article in a series dealing with the Integrated Training Area Management Program (ITAM) at Camp Grayling. The program is aimed at determining the land's ability to support training with the least impact on natural resources including wildlife habitat. The first article dealt with the plant and animal survey by the Nature Conservancy, the second with land reclamation, and this article discusses the future use of the information collected in the research through a data processing element in the project.)

By Don Geiss

A Geographical Information System (GIS) computer will enable Camp Grayling personnel to locate and map species of special concern, locate field plots, outline areas of unique habitat and map roads and other features.

In order to carry out all of the functions, data must be fed into the computer related to all of the environmental concerns on the property. As readers may recall, previous articles dealt with the research being conducted by the Nature Conservancy and a continuing program through biology specialists. The information garnered through these field research specialists is and will continue to be programmed into the computer by Carla Elenz, the data processing specialist in the Environmental Headquarters.

According to Elenz, the software for the project was furnished by the U.S. government and some of the maps, particularly dealing with the gypsy moth problem, were furnished by the Department of Natural Resources.

She said that the program has really just started in terms of feeding the information into the computer.

She noted, however, that much information can now be retrieved whether it is in the form of maps or management documents.

As an example in point, Elenz called up on the computer screen a map outline of the camp. She then added rivers and Lake Margrethe outlines. Adding color, she added outlines of the areas hit hardest by the gypsy moth (see accompanying map). She noted that eventually roads will also be added so that a more accurate location may be pinpointed.

As another example of use, it was pointed out that buffer zones around lakes, streams and the Kirtland's

Warbler territory could be contained in a map handed out to all the troops using camp facilities so that they could more readily be avoided. Additional data to be processed will provide information on ground cover and relate it to the amount of pressure any section could take from troop training.

The test plots from which data is being and will be collected will provide the computer with topographic and vegetative conditions, soil characteristics and erosion rates. These will all be available in terms of amounts of pressure on the land.

Environmental Manager John Hunt said that much of this data will be helpful to other state organizations such as the DNR. He pointed out that already they have been cooperating in exchanging information.

Hunt also pointed out that another tool in providing information to the

Lovells citizens cleaning their roadsides and woods

By Terry Wright

Many citizens of the Lovells area have been involved with a road and woods cleanup project. Stretches of county roads 612, F-97, and F-32, and the wooded areas along those roads have been or are being cleaned of unsightly trash.

With garbage bags donated by Glen's Market, trucks from Century Pest Control and support from Lovells Township and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Forestry Division, volunteers are working the area between May 17-20.

Volunteer worker Tom Force said, "In one three and one-half mile stretch, we got 76 bags of trash." Tom is asking that anyone who would like to help with the project is welcome to come along.

Students learn value of proper reforestation techniques

By Terry Wright

Fifth and sixth grade students from the Grayling Middle School recently had an opportunity to help ensure the future of our area forests while learning about forest management. In a special cooperative educational effort between the U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation, the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension, and Weyerhaeuser Forest Products Company, students were treated to a day in the woods with lots of fun and a little hard work.

In the days preceding the field trip, representatives from Soil Conservation and MSU visited the classrooms with a forestry presentation to the students. They learned about managing the forests as both a cash crop to provide valuable jobs and products, as a source of wildlife habitat, and as an area for recreational use. They talked about old growth forests, varying stages of new growth forests, and the reasons for clear-cutting.

On the day of the field trip, students were bused to a forest area south of Grayling that was undergoing different phases of reforestation by both man and nature. Under the direction of Weyerhaeuser Forester, Paul Call, they first counted stump rings to determine the ages of trees when they were cut. They discovered that the oaks were much older. Call explained that after the logging days of the last century, the oaks sprouted from stumps. In later years forest fires had burned the undergrowth. Only the largest and strongest oaks survived the fires but even they suffered from rotted cores.

When the undergrowth burned, allowing in more sunshine, pines grew. Call pointed out an old monarch redpine that had probably been responsible for reseeding the newer forest. Jackpines and redpines competed for space in what became a predominantly pine forest. The stumps of the pines were thirty to sixty years younger than the oak stumps. Many of the jackpines had reached full maturity and had died and fallen from the winds. The oaks and jackpines had been harvested within the last few weeks but most of the redpines were left to further mature. On the way back to the buses the students crossed an area that had been recently clearcut. Call pointed out that clearcutting is not a harvesting technique because not all of the trees can be used in the forest products industry, but a forest management technique that allows a long regrowth period which supports a much larger variety of animal life.

Next the students were taken to a forest in the process of harvesting where loggers from Baynham Forest Products Company demonstrated the modern techniques of logging equipment. The feller/buncher cuts and bundles the trees. An skidder brings them to the delimer where they are stripped of limbs. The slasher cuts the logs into eight foot sections and a grapple loads them on a truck to be taken to the factory. Baynham explained that they usually cut about 100 cords of wood per day, and can clear a 40 acre field in about a week. Because all phases of the operation are now mechanized, there are few men in the woods with chainsaws, making the industry much safer than it once was.

Paul Call explained to the students the importance of the loggers to a

113 donate blood at GHS/Red Cross drive

The Red Cross blood drive at Grayling High School on May 5 was a success with 113 donors. The students were the largest donor group, the retirees were next, and in third place there was a tie between GHS teachers and Camp Grayling.

Gallon marks were met by Charles Fick, 17; Allen Myers, 6; Gerald Annis, 4; Larry Domnick, 4; Anita Chesner, 2; Frederick Varisco, 1; and Michelle Steiger, 1.

Four Season donors were Randall Black and Varisco.

Many students from GHS volunteered as workers to assist the nurses at the blood drive. These students arrived at the school to meet the Red Cross truck at 8 a.m.

Gypsy Moth Control Director says property owners objecting to spraying are jeopardizing entire program

Several large tracts of land in Crawford County are being removed from a gypsy moth control program scheduled in May because of property owner's objections to spraying.

Crawford County Gypsy Moth Control Director Howard Taylor says property owners who are basing their objections to the spraying of Bt for the control of gypsy moth on environmental reasons are seriously affecting the control of the tree destroying caterpillar in Crawford County.

To date, the following areas which were scheduled to be sprayed have been removed from the program because of property owner objections to the spray.

In Beaver Creek Township, 25N 3W, Section 18 all of the proposed treatment block between Old 76 and U.S. 27 expressway, south of 6 Mile Road for 1/4 mile.

In Grayling Township, 26N 4W, Section 12, 40 acres lying east of Old Dam Road and north of M-72.

In Grayling Township, 26N 4W, Section 15, all of the proposed treatment block lying north of Summit Avenue.

Taylor says it is possible that even more areas will be eliminated before spraying begins later this month. He says the material used to control Gypsy Moth is Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt) ssp. kurasaki, which is a spore forming living bacteria that affects only caterpillars. Bt spores naturally live in the soil; however, when applied to foliage, the bacteria dies in less than ten days.

In Grayling Township, 27N 3W, Sections 28 and 33 all of the proposed treatment block that lies west of the mid line of these two sections.

In Grayling Township, 26N 4W, Section 10 all of the proposed treatment block lying east of Danish Landing Road.

In Grayling Township, 26N 4W, Section 1, all of the proposed treatment block lying west of the AuSable River. fed to quail, rats, dogs, mice, pheasants, hens, humans, rainbow trout, and bluegill with no adverse effect. Bt is the only insect control compound that has been approved by the National Organic Gardeners as being acceptable to use on organically grown vegetables.

For more information regarding the Crawford County Gypsy Moth Control Program and the areas being treated this year, call 348-5187.

In studies, Taylor says, Bt has been

Senator Pridnia says Proposal A means property tax relief

Skyrocketing property tax assessments and inadequate school funding could be things of the past if Michigan voters approve a plan to implement sweeping changes in how we finance education. June 2 will be a turning point in our state, a day when voters decide if they want genuine property tax relief and school finance reform.

For years now homeowners have been rightfully angered by drastic increases in their property tax assessments. In Crawford County alone, assessments went up an average of 11.6 percent in 1993.

If passed, Proposal A would roll back assessments to 1992 levels and allow for an inflationary three percent increase. From that point on, assessments could increase no faster than five percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less.

In addition to this provision, school operating taxes would be reduced for Crawford AuSable Schools from the current 28.35 mills to 18 mills — nearly a 10.5 mill drop.

This would in no way reduce the amount of money our schools have for education. Quite the contrary. In fact, all schools are guaranteed a funding increase of at least three percent but not more than ten percent over current spending levels. Ultimately, a constitutionally guaranteed base spending level of $4,800 per student would result, which will be adjusted upward as sales tax and lottery revenues increase over the years. Also, it is important to note that the days of in-formula and out-of-formula school districts would be gone.

In Crawford County, that means an average of ten percent more in school funding, and $380 more per student.

In exchange for these tax cuts, voters are being asked to approve a two-cent increase in the state sales tax.

That sales tax, however, will buy much more than property tax relief. It will put our state's educational system on sound financial ground, assuring every district has adequate funds to ensure their students receive a quality education, regardless of where they live.

Every Michigan resident benefits from a high quality educational system that graduates students with the skills and knowledge they need to successfully compete in today's work force. Better educated students will be more likely to land well-paying jobs. An inadequate education severely limits job prospects and earning potential, making crime or state-funded support an attractive alternative in some cases.

Proposal A provides real and significant savings for the vast majority of Michigan property tax payers. It also provides our state with the edge it needs to compete for job providers. And, a quality educational system means our students will be adequately prepared for either continuing education or the job market when they finish high school.

For those reasons, I believe Proposal A is a winner, and I urge your support at the polls in June.

Senator John Pridnia

Publishing poems shows students it is important to think and to write

I commend you for printing the poetry of first grade students in the May 13th Avalanche. What an ego booster for little children to see their names in bold print and to realize that their thoughts are worthy of the attention of other people. You helped reinforce to at least twenty-five little children that it is important to think and to write. Thank you for your support of education.

People won't regret supporting local hospice

I'm writing to say how pleased I was when I read the Weyerhaeuser Corporation made a grant to my hospice in Grayling. I am so proud that my son, Chad Kelly, and son-in-law, Dave Malm, work for this generous company.

The people in the Grayling area will never regret supporting Hospice of Grayling. I am a registered nurse employed by Hospice of Lansing. We so often hear from patients and caregivers "I wish we would have called you earlier." This is the most rewarding job I've ever had, helping my patients meet the challenge and give loving care for their final journey.

I pray you'll have a physician who will support palliative care and has knowledge of pain and symptom control.

While qualified paid personnel to operate a hospice program is necessary, the volunteers are truly the heart of the organization. I also was a volunteer for many years before I began working as a primary care nurse.

Another service hospice offers a bereavement program that reaches out to all, whether a hospice client or not.

I remember some of us starting our own group because there was a need for a hospice program in Grayling. I wish you well.

COLLEGE CAMPUSES right after World War II were pulsating, in dynamic places.

The GI Bill of Rights permitted thousands of veterans to go to college. Most were anxious to make up for time lost in military service.

Few campuses were ready for the onslaught of subsidized students. At Michigan State University, for example, incoming veterans slept in bunks at Jenison Fieldhouse, and in hastily located steel quonset huts moved from military installations to what then were the outer environs of the campus.

One of the popular courses which many students had to take anyway was American government, and one of the more popular teachers was James W. Miller, who himself had been in wartime military service.

IN THE MID-FIFTIES, Jim Miller succumbed to his own advice, and was appointed by Gov. Williams as State Controller and head of the Department of Administration. He proved to be a sound, effective government administrator.

One of his jobs was to develop and defend the governor's budget — not always an easy task for a liberal Democratic governor with a conservative Republican legislature.

One of my crisp memories as a capitol reporter in those days was Jim Miller leading a cadre of budget experts into the tiny capitol pressroom, distributing the thick, complicated budget books to the handful of reporters then assigned to cover the capitol (only seven news outlets statewide reported news regularly in those days), and staying with us until the last question was answered.

* * *

THE POINT OF Mr. Miller's classroom discussions often was that Controller Miller did this every year.

Subsequently Mr. Miller returned to MSU as Secretary of the Board of Trustees. In 1960, he was appointed President of Western Michigan University, where he oversaw the growth of the school from 9,000 to 22,000 students during a 14-year tenure.

* * *

JAMES W. MILLER died on April 27, 1993, at age 80. He was a man who practiced his beliefs.

His greatest fame certainly was earned at his final post in the public service as WMU president.

* * *

But for me, Jim Miller's doctrine of personal involvement in public affairs will live the longest.

One day when he was state Controller and I was covering the capitol beat, we talked about the number of students he had prompted into activism, and how they had contributed so much to the public welfare.

He included me in the list; political reporting counted too, he said.

James W. Miller contributed much to Michigan.

I will remember Jim Miller for what he taught, as well as for what he did.

By Joe Murphy

The old man is still looking for his first mushroom of the year but I will be checking for awhile yet. I guess in some places there's loads of them, but either the old man is too blind to see them anymore or they have just not popped yet. In some ways it just don't look like the woods are quite ready yet.

A very nice lady, Mary Jane Wright of Lansing, whose roots run deep in Crawford County's soil, sent me a tape on which she had recorded her memories of Pere Cheney and the early settlers of that area. Her great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sewell, are buried in the cemetery there along with other early family members.

Last evening I attended a meeting of the Beaver Creek Township Board where we discussed improvements to the Pere Cheney cemetery. The board seemed willing to do what was possible to devote more time and effort to its maintenance. The fact that they do not have records of the burials there make it very difficult or impossible to replace the headstones destroyed by vandals.

They would appreciate it if those who have information on people buried there would supply them with it. If you wish it can be sent to me and I will pass it on to them. My address is Joe Murphy, 603 Maple Street, Grayling, MI, 49738, or phone 517-348-8308. Now that it is a state historical site it would be nice to see many improvements take place there. I wish to offer a big thank you to Mrs. Wright for taking the time to add a bit to the history of this area. I hope to do a column on the information you supplied in the near future.

Now that the weather has warmed, the old man seems to be running a dollar short and a day late. Seems there is always plenty to keep me busy now. The way the grass is growing reminds me to get the lawn mower ready for a busy year. The motor home needs some work on the lights, the basement and garage can keep busy most of the summer.

The yard and garage sales are starting real slow this year. Come on folks, let's get those ads in the Avalanche and keep the old man busy on weekends checking them out.

The old man has been getting a lot of kind words in regards to his efforts of late and I appreciate each and everyone. At times I get discouraged and wonder why I keep at it. But then I meet some nice folks who tell me they enjoy my efforts and I feel it is worthwhile.

I think the Adopt A Highway is a great program I worked with the Mason's and they cleaned up their stretch of road last Saturday. We gathered a lot of trash that won't be an eyesore to the folks who travel into or through this area.

Local scouts place high at Moonlight Camporee

It was the weekend of April 30-May 2 and all was quiet at Hanson Hills. That is until the AuSable District of the Boy Scouts of America arrived. They came by car and truck from near and far. When the dust settled around 9 p.m. Friday night there were 178 Boy Scouts, Webelos and their leaders.

The boys proceeded to set their campsites up and have some fun. At 10:30 p.m. the Boy Scouts began to gather around the lodge, getting ready for their Moonlight Camporee competition. The boys could be heard going through the woods until well into the night stopping at skill stations along the way. They competed in skills such as first aid, knot tying, lashings, fire building, and even a compass course, all without the use of any light other than that provided by mother nature. In the early morning hours, the Boy Scouts finally settled in for a short night's sleep. Not to be outdone, the Webelos began their competition right after breakfast. They competed in such things as a maze, technology engineer, outdoorsman, sportsman, and more.

After lunch everyone enjoyed participating with the Hanson Hills solving, star compass course, trivia Community Kite Flying Day. There and campsite inspection, 2nd in fire were almost 350 children total flying building and a very impressive 1st overall patrol and troop in Boy Scout

KINDERGARTEN CELEBRATES GRANDPARENT'S DAY—Kindergarten children at the Grayling Elementary School recently celebrated Grandparent's Day by singing their favorite songs to their favorite people.

Local agency offers hope for "new life" to all local residents

By Terry Wright-

"Our agency's purpose is to provide counseling, employment and educational service in Crawford County," said Robert Smock, Jr., is the director of New Life Community Services, a Christian based, non-profit organization committed to delivering a series of unique and very needed human services to residents of the county. New Life was created in 1987 to fill the gaps in existing services and to address the previously unmet needs of those citizens suffering from the social ills of modern day living. New Life is based at St. Francis Episcopal Church in Grayling.

New Life provides services to schools, courts, jails, and the general public. Those services include individual and family counseling, GED assistance, college curriculum and financial assistance. Substance abuse services include alcohol assessments, substance abuse prevention education, alcohol highway safety education classes and outpatient counseling. New Life also provides services to Probate, District, and Circuit Courts, and includes alcohol assessments, community service work, and all aspects of substance abuse counseling and education.

Staff members must have proper professional credentials and must also have expertise in problem solving, education, and treatment. The current staff team has over forty years of cumulative experience. Clients are charged on a sliding income scale so that New Life services are affordable to all. "No clients are ever turned away because of money," said Smock. "We are here to help people."

Services by New Life are divided into five program areas. They are substance abuse services, community correction services, community counseling, a probate court program, and adolescent substance abuse services. Referrals to individual programs come from schools, doctors, agencies, parents, lawyers, probation officers and courts within the county. Walk-in clients and referrals are also accepted. Each program has achieved varying degrees of success and they are expanding.

The community counseling program uses a client-centered approach, emphasizing a sensitivity to the needs and expectations of those being served. Within this program, services include individual counseling, marital/relationship counseling and family counseling.

The New Life Community Corrections Program has been very successful. Funded from state grants approved by the Michigan Department of Corrections, the Crawford County Community Corrections Program was recently fully funded by the state, while many other rural counties had their grants diverted to fund urban programs downstate. Smock attributes that to the fact that, "We work hard to help the local offender population. We're not just throwing our money into meaningless administrative costs. Because 90% of our grant dollars go into direct services, the client becomes the main focus. Many people are beating alcohol and drug problems and learning how to become solid community citizens. We have a great business community that gives offenders a second chance."

Smock stated that substance abuse programs have grown significantly over the past few years. "We provide stones. We stand committed to professional excellence and to positive growth for individuals, families, and communities in ways that are pleasing to both God and people."

New Life agency services are available Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. If you feel that you are in need of these services, please contact New Life at 348-2544 or 348-4374.

computer is the Global Positioning System. He said that this extremely accurate survey equipment works by triangulating time differences between radio signals from a series of 21 orbiting satellites. The hand held unit accurately measures within two meters a location anywhere on camp property.

Hunt said that as tenants and stewards of nearly 147,000 acres of state land, the Michigan Department of Military Affairs share the concerns of the citizens of the state that operations at Camp Grayling must occur with the least impact on the natural resources. To protect these resources Camp Grayling has taken a proactive posture towards protecting, conserving and managing the natural resources.

Local students learn reforestation techniques

company like Weyerhaeuser. He said, "Weyerhaeuser relies on the wood that the loggers bring in. Because of that reliance, we use all the resources in our power to guarantee that loggers are successful. We can't be successful if they're not successful." Weyerhaeuser has two foresters, one of which is in the field working with companies like Baynham's on a daily basis.

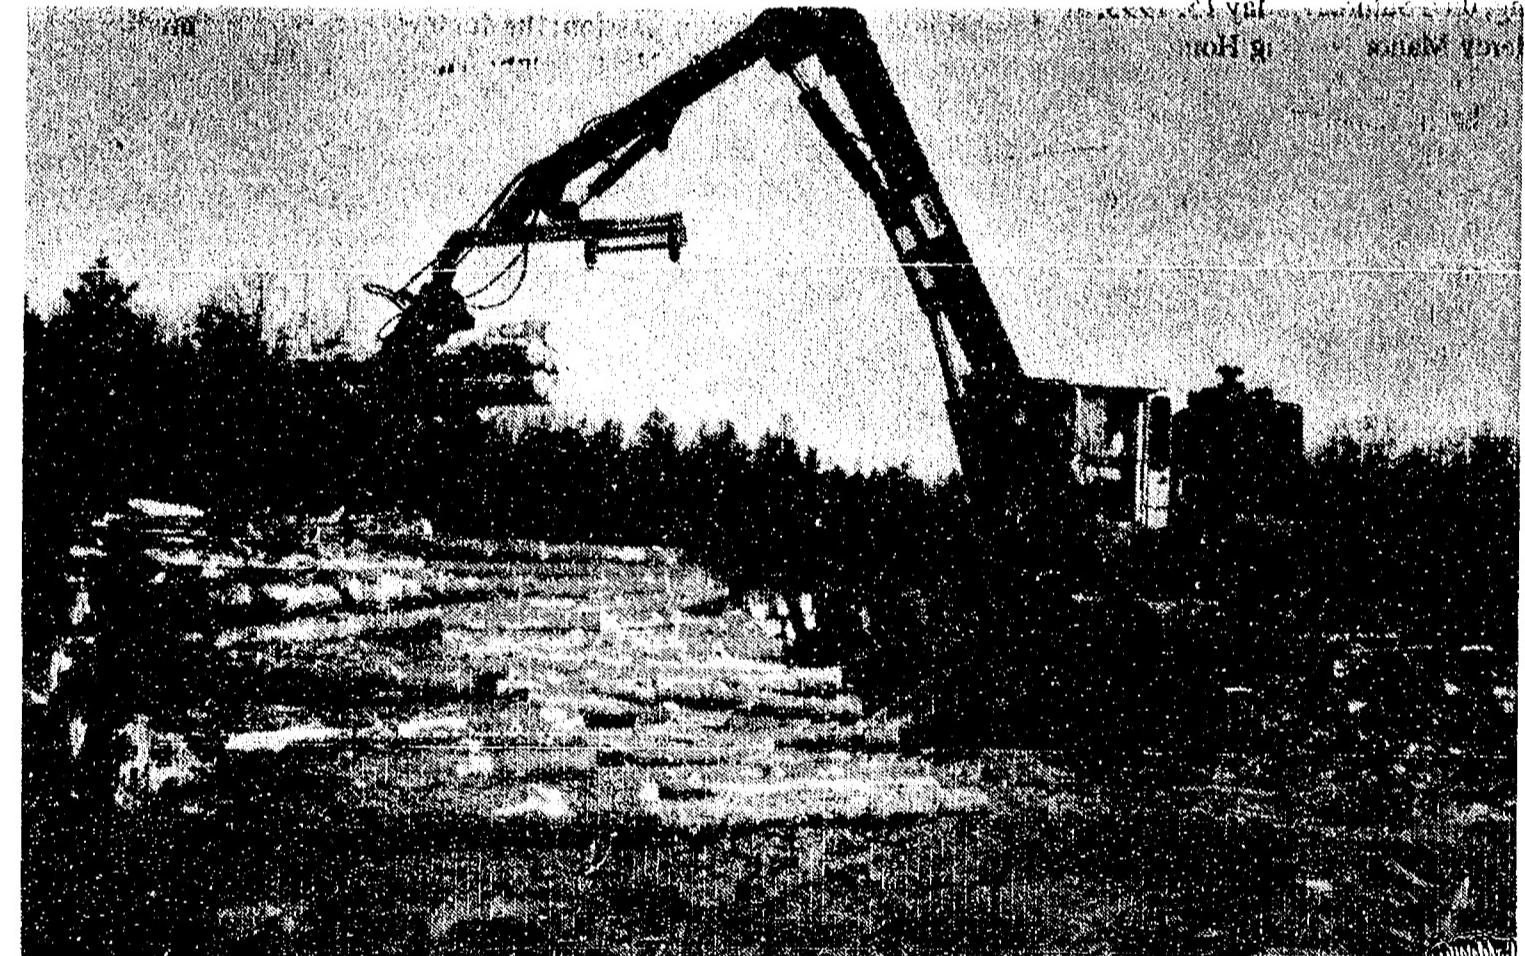

Next the students were taken to an area that had been in a fairly young growth stage until a forest fire two years before had cleared it. Only scrub oaks had returned. Here the students were shown how to use a planting bar to plant trees, and each team of two was given about 50 seedling redpines. They spent the next hour replanting the barren forest. Six classes of fifth and sixth graders planted a total of 5,000 redpines which had been donated by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. Many of the students talked about returning to the forest in the future to see the trees that they had planted.

After a sack lunch break the buses made their final stop on a trail deep in an aspen forest. On one side of the road stood a five year old forest of small, thick, dense aspen, the result of natural regeneration from a clearcut area. The other side of the road had been clearcut in 1968. The aspen were much larger but the forest had naturally thinned itself out. Call explained that the larger forest would be ready to harvest in about 15 years when it reaches full maturity.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources Forest Management

Division is charged with the care and upkeep of our forests. Through a carefully managed program of reforestation, they are developing forests in varying stages of growth that will guarantee continued forest benefits well into the future.

Weyerhaeuser plant manager, Roger Anger accompanied the students through their day in the forest. He said, "This will be an annual event in both Grayling and Roscommon. These kids need to understand just what's happening in the woods. We're committed to education on reforestation."

DEMONSTRATION OF LOGGING TECHNIQUES—Loggers from Larry Baynham Forest Products Co. demonstrate the use of modern logging equipment. This slasher picks up a bunch of logs. It will cut them into eight foot sections before restacking them. (Photo by Linda Wright)

GHS varsity softball girls mercy Roscommon 21-6

By Nancy Lemmen

The Grayling High School varsity softball team picked up its first win of the season against Roscommon in a home contest on Monday.

Senior Heidi Craigie took the win as Grayling mercied the Bucks, 21-6, on May 17.

The Vikings lost the second game, 18-2. Junior Heather Bindschadl took the loss, with Craigie throwing in relief.

"(Junior) Heather Guzman's absence gave Bindschadl the opportunity to get some needed experience," said Coach Rebecca Brown. "She did a respectable job."

"The kids were really excited to beat Roscommon," said Brown. "They have been working very hard and I was glad to see that pay off for them."

"They got rattled during second game, had a couple of bad innings and it was a little too much for them to come back," she continued. "Hopefully, now that they have

GHS building trades class highlights two years of work with Open House Friday

After two years on the job — the first on exterior work and the second on the interior — the building trades program at Grayling High School has completed its current project.

The class invites the public to an open house it will host on Friday, May 21, from 1 to 8 p.m. at 1159 Robinhood Lane, the home's site, to view the finished project.

The single-family dwelling, located in Sherwood Forest, will be offered by Century 21/RiverCountry Real Estate, Inc.

Building trades instructor is Dale Lesh. His 1991-'92 aide, Lester Powers, retired and moved to Kentucky. His '92-'93 aide has been Alex Strachan.

O'Brien, Mike Vollmer and Marie Burgess.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The three-bedroom ranch-style home is 28 by 44 feet (1,232 square feet) with a 22 by 28-foot attached garage. It is located on a 185 by 175-foot wooded lot.

The house has 1 3/4 bathrooms (one with a tub, one with a shower) and a 12 by 16-foot treated deck.

The ceilings are 3 1/2-inch F.G. with eight inches of cellulose. The foundation has one inch of Styrofoam.

There is a four-block crawl space.

The exterior has wicker-colored vinyl siding and clay-colored aluminum soffits and fascia. The interior has been dry-walled and painted and laid with ExtraLife Dupont Stainmaster carpeting.

The kitchen has Homecrest formica-faced cabinets and a dishwasher.

The house has Eagle thermopane windows with casements and low E glass, a natural gas heating system with hydro plus high efficiency hot water heat which includes domestic hot water.

There is a 50-foot well with a 1/2-horsepower Gould pump, a 1,250-gallon septic system and 150-ampere underground electric service.

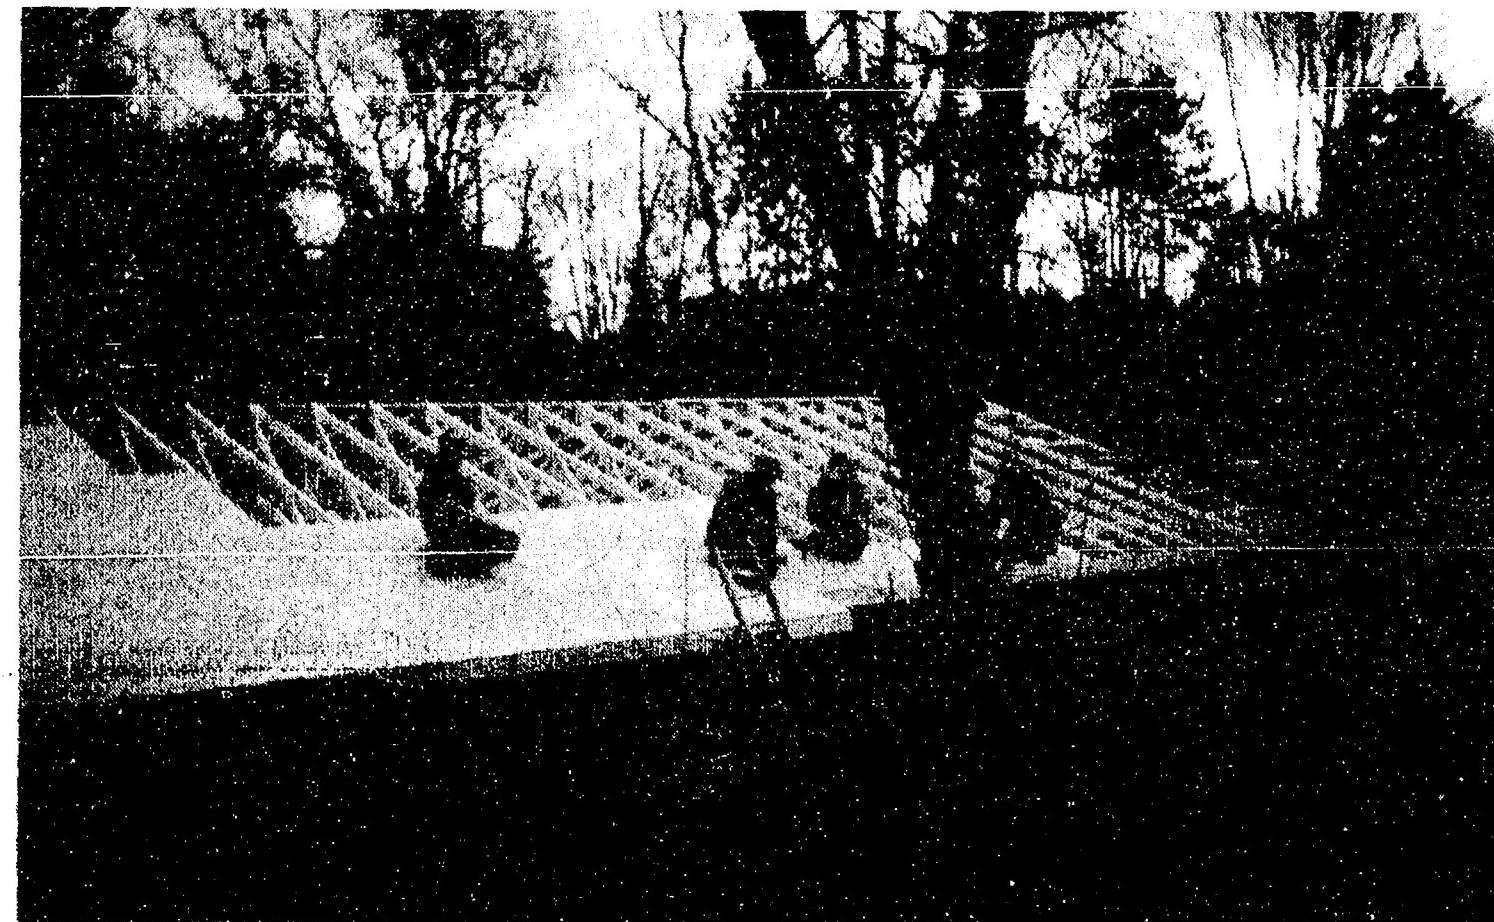

It has a Nutone Smart System that operates lights with hand-held remotes.

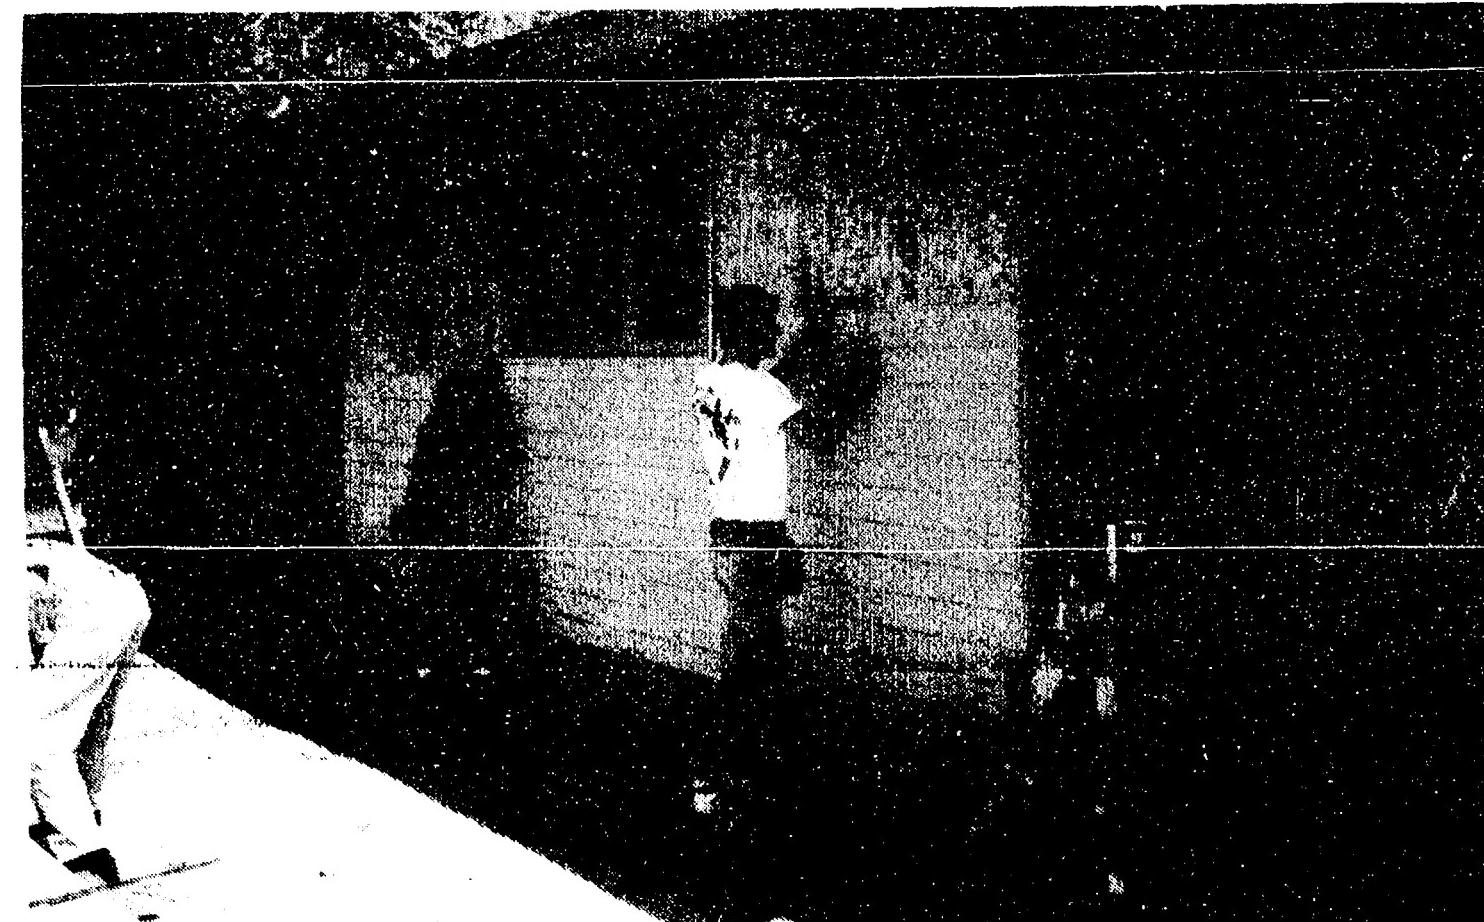

LAYING THE DECK--Building Trades students put down the deck -- 3/4-inch tongue-and-groove OSB -- on the outside of their house, located at 1159 Robinhood Lane, in September, 1991. Program instructor Dale Lesh said the class was fortunate to have "decent weather" for the project.

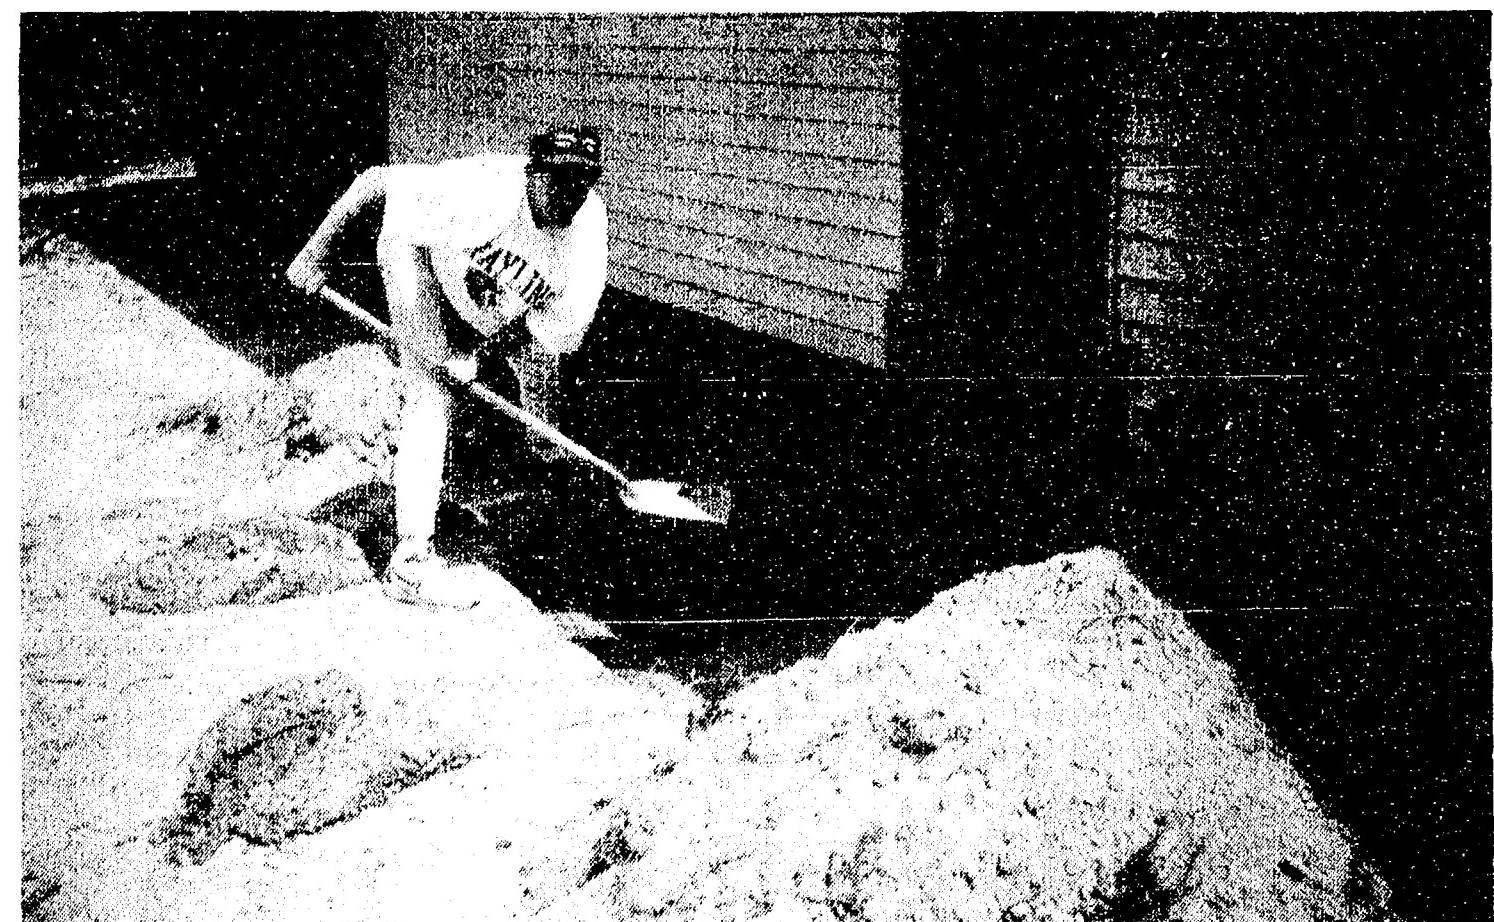

BUILDING WALLS--GHS alumnus Rick O'Brien, a two-year Building Trades member, cuts plates for wall sections while other students erect them in the fall of 1991.

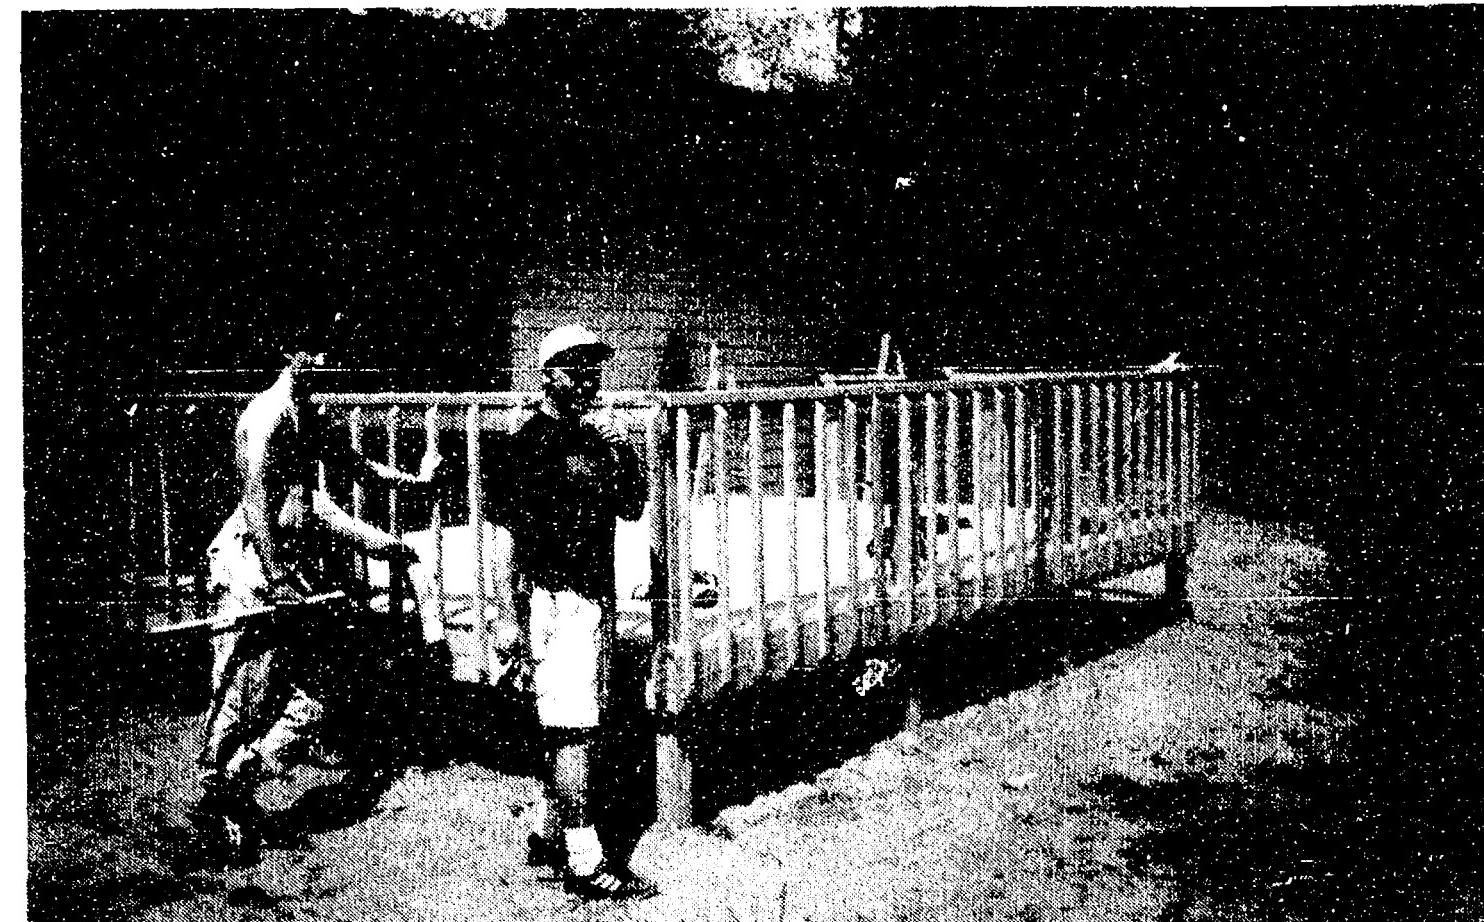

SHEETING THE ROOF--Building Trades students work on the roof of their house in early November, 1991. The single-family dwelling will be shown at an open house on Friday, May 21, from 1 to 8 p.m.

INSTALLING SIDING--Gary Schroyer and Brian Calkins install vinyl siding on the house in the spring of 1992. Schroyer and Calkins, now seniors, are second-year members of the Building Trades program.

LEVELING CONCRETE--Brian Calkins, now a senior, smoothes concrete that has been poured for the front porch. Calkins was in charge of that project, one of the last ones completed before the 1991-92 school year ended, said instructor Dale Lesh.

FINISHING TOUCHES--Tim Mead and Gary Schroyer, now seniors, put finishing touches on the home's deck in the spring of 1992. The deck is located on the back side of the house, off the dining room.

Ausable River Dixieland Jazz Band continues 17th year of performing

It was more than fifteen years ago that a small group of local business and professional men got together to see if they couldn't find something to do as a recreational activity that was not the traditional bowling, fishing or skiing. They began to get together once a week to play music and in a short time, the "Original Ausable River Dixieland Jazz Band" came into being. Since that time, with only a few relatively short interruptions in their playing, the group has been getting together once a week ever since.

Through the years, the personnel in the band has changed somewhat, although three of the seven members of the group began playing in 1977 when the band was organized. Only four members of the group are residents of Grayling, with other members coming from Traverse City, West Branch, and Saginaw to play.

In the past, the Original Ausable River Dixieland Jazz Band has performed for many private and public functions in the Crawford County community. For the past several years the band has "sold itself" at the annual United Way Auction, raising several thousand dollars for that organization. In addition, in the past the band has appeared at other notable functions such as the Alpinfest in Gaylord, the Harvest Festival in Manton and the St. Helen Bluegill Festival. They have also performed for General Motors on Mackinac Island and for both Weyerhaeuser and Georgia Pacific at events which they have sponsored.

With the coming of spring, the Original Ausable River Dixieland Jazz

Band will begin another season of entertainment throughout all of northern Michigan. The band gets started at Houghton Lake where they will be appearing at the Duck Inn on the afternoon of May 16. That will be followed on Sunday, May 23, by three performances aboard the Lake Michigan Carferry the "S.S. Badger," the only passenger steamship on the Great Lakes. Launched in 1952, the "Badger" was one of seven carferries to transport railroad cars and a limited number of passengers between Michigan and Wisconsin. Today, rail freight is no longer ferried across Lake Michigan, but the S. S. Badger has been refurbished into a modern day cruise ship complete with lounge areas, a cocktail bar, shops, an arcade stateroom, food service and entertainment. The majestic 410-foot-long ship carries up to 620 passengers and 130 automobiles.

On Sunday evening, June 6, the Original Ausable River Dixieland Jazz Band will be appearing locally at Chief Shoppenagon's Motor Hotel from 6 until 9 p.m. On Sunday afternoon, June 13, the group will be returning to the Duck Inn in Houghton Lake and on the weekend of June 19 and 20, the band will be performing in concert at Whitepine Pioneer Village in Ludington. June 27 will find the group at the Cedar Inn in St. Helen.

July engagements for the Original Ausable River Dixieland Jazz Band include a traditional Dixieland church service in Grayling on the 25th. The band will be appearing at the Murray House Hotel on Mackinac Island during the month of July also. Additional information concerning performances of the Original Ausable River Dixieland Jazz Band can be obtained by calling 348-5187 or 1-800-624-0221. These same numbers can also provide information about the S.S. Badger.

They will greet and direct campers, inform them of campground rules, provide local information, report emergencies to campground staff, and perform minimal cleanup and maintenance of supplies.

Volunteer campground hosts (either individuals, families or groups) camp free of charge with their own camping equipment and are reimbursed for certain minimal expenses incurred as part of their agreed upon duties. Hosts are also provided with an identification cap and vest.

Volunteers are advised to apply early as positions are filled on a first-come, first-served basis. Potential volunteers should indicate their interests and preferences by contacting the Forest Manager or the assistant in charge of forest recreation at the DNR district office nearest the campground or trail they are interested in.

The Bible Speaks

From The
Calvary Baptist Church

Michigan Model Morality

"The Senate Select Committee to Study the Michigan Model" in their final report stated in Finding 23: "Adolescent risk-taking behavior has not decreased during the period the Michigan Model has been taught. In the last paragraph under that finding they say, "We point to alcohol abuse among youngsters. We point to the violence that this age group experiences among themselves on a daily basis. We point to the high rate of teen pregnancies and abortions hindered by Michigan Model lessons." They said, "At each hearing site, it became obvious that the state of Michigan is teaching our kids it's okay to get pregnant . . . Mixed messages lead to the attitude that anything goes . . . We have done nothing to say to teenagers that it is okay to say no to sex."

Finding 9 further explains the problem above. "Because of mixed messages about pre-marital sex, Michigan Model lessons result in a lack of dollars. Our schools are soul sick. Our schools are trying to educate our children and young adults with only the most superficial and questionable attempts to develop their characters and their moral virtues. That is the core problem facing our schools . . . Our students are not learning self-discipline and respect for others through the Michigan Model . . . They were encouraged by our schools to choose their own values and we are now paying the price."

Finding 19 explains in part one of the moral problems: "Effort to curb teen pregnancies and teen abortions hindered by Michigan Model lessons." They said, "At each hearing site, it became obvious that the state of Michigan is teaching our kids it's okay to get pregnant . . . Mixed messages lead to the attitude that anything goes . . . We have done nothing to say to teenagers that it is okay to say no to sex."

Finding 9 further explains the problem above. "Because of mixed messages about pre-marital sex, Michigan Model lessons result in increased adolescent sexual promiscuity." They said, "We were dismayed to learn that our children were being taught in the Michigan Model that sex is our sexual organs and what we do or don't do with them." They said, "The social and economic costs of this educational philosophy and method of teaching are bankrupting the state both morally and financially . . . Abstinence for non-marital relationships has been the standard for our society and for Western civilization . . . there is no reason to change that standard now." We commend the Senators for doing an excellent job of evaluating the Michigan Model. "If the foundations be destroyed, what can the righteous do?" (Psalm 11:3).

"The Heart of the Wise . . ."

Has the journey come to an end or has it only just begun? Each graduate shall provide a unique answer.

The renowned writer William Shakespeare described the world as a stage and each of us as players. The life of each graduate is the material of a script which determines the part he or she plays in the advancement of humankind. Now the graduate takes center stage, both literally and figuratively.

Every diploma is a key to advancement, either through further education or the pursuit of a chosen career. That coveted key . . . that piece of parchment representing sleepless nights, perspiration and perseverance, can open endless doors . . . doors leading to the discoveries which will determine the degree of advancement of civilization in the twenty-first century.

Finally, yet most importantly, may each graduate include God in their endeavors, for Prov. 16:23 says, "The heart of the wise teacheth his mouth, and aforesome learning to his lips."

POLICE FIRE SALUTE TO FELLOW OFFICERS--Members of the Grayling City Police and the Crawford County Sheriff Department fire a salute to fellow officers slain in action during memorial ceremonies commemorating Crawford County Law Enforcement Officer's Day.

Representative Alley named KCC commencement speaker

Representative Tom Alley, West Branch, has been named the commencement speaker for graduation at Kirtland Community College on Friday, May 14.

Alley graduated from West Branch of Representatives in 1978, High School and received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Central Michigan University.

He was a public school teacher in Pinconning for three years, and at West Branch for seven years. He served as Ogemaw Township Supervisor before being elected to the Michigan House Ceremonies will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Gilbert I. Stewart Auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

He said that on the floor of the

A crowd of about 30 onlookers listened as police officer and board of commissioners chairman Dennis Long read a proclamation proclaiming May 15 as Crawford County Law Enforcement Officer's Day.

Following the speakers, a unit of police officers fired a salute to their own who died in the line of duty. Taps was played as the flag was raised from half to full-staff.

United Way now accepting requests

The Crawford County United Way is now accepting requests for applications for funds in 1994. Currently funded agencies need not request an application, as one will automatically be sent to them. Other non-profit agencies are invited to apply, provided they have 50/C3 status from the IRS, a current license to solicit from the Michigan Attorney General, and a non-discrimination clause in their by-laws.

Each year, over $50,000 has been raised in Crawford County and distributed to 16 local agencies. The Crawford County United Way is run totally by volunteers and therefore has very little administrative expense—less than one percent.

If your agency meets the required criteria and you would like an application, send your request to David Sabin, vice president, Crawford County United Way, PO Box 171, Grayling, MI, 49738, before May 30, 1993.

NEEDY AID—Rotarian Loren Goodale II hands over a $500 check to Scoutmaster Loren Goodale III. The funds will purchase plastic bags with an imprinted scout return address. They will be used to collect canned goods for the needy. According to Scoutmaster Goodale, last year the plain bags used were not suitable because they were lost or mixed up with other similar containers. These bags can be hung on the donor's doorknob and will stand out, he said.

Russian exchange student seeks Grayling home

Imagine the glowing wonder and amazement on the face of a young Russian exchange student as she steps off the plane into America for the first time ever.

Thanks to U.S. Senator Bill Bradley's Freedom Support Act, local families may help make this dream come true by hosting an exchange student from Russia or from any of the other newly independent states of the former Soviet Union during the coming academic school year.

For more information about this opportunity, contact John Smock at 517/348-9188 or call 1-800-736-1760.

IF YOU CHIP A TOOTH

by DR. STEPHEN THOMPSON

Billy was playing sandlot baseball. He was catcher - a brave one - without a mask. As fate would have it, the batter swung at a pitch and the backswing hit Billy in the mouth and chipped off two of his front teeth. This is a typical dental emergency which requires immediate dental care.

When injury exposes the tooth pulp, it can be serious since the potential for infection is high. The pulp is the innermost chamber of the tooth and contains nerves and blood vessels.

Temporary treatment of injured tooth pulp includes the use of a sedative dressing to cut down sensitivity in the area. If a pulpectomy (removal of the pulp material) is necessary, it will be followed by root-canal therapy, and the use of a crown or a cap if the tooth can be preserved.

Until you can get to a dentist following an injury, keep the mouth as clean as possible by rinsing it with a solution of warm salt water. If there are loose teeth, no food should be chewed until the teeth are stabilized in the jaw.
